

May 8, 2003

Disclaimer for all database reports. Though database reports can be a very cost effective means of finding candidates and several of our customers have realized tremendous results from using this source of candidates, we would like to issue the following disclaimer as to the accuracy of these reports. No guarantees will be made as to the accuracy of the information enclosed in a database report. As such, there may be incorrect, false, misrepresented and/or outdated information enclosed in these types of reports.. If a database report is found to have an extreme amount of inaccurate information the client receiving the report will still be held financially responsible for the costs incurred for producing the report. No attempt will be made on HTC Research's behalf to replace such information in any way, shape or form. In other words, what you see is what you get and is also what you pay for. No exceptions will be made.